Article in journal/newspaper

1. Surname and initials of author
2. Title of article (in quotation marks)
3. Title of journal (in italics)
4. Volume, part and date of journal
5. Page numbers.

E.g.

This will look like this in a body of work:

Reading enables you to go deeper into your understanding of your research books are an integral part of this

By doing a literature review it shows that you have understood your reading and the breadth and depth of your research on a given topic.

Make sure you include everything as using someone else's ideas and using them as your own is as much plagiarism as direct quotes so remember to reference!

Bibliography/Reading list

Make sure it is in your bibliography in alphabetical order.

Your footnote should look like this for a Journal.